

HOW TO BE ALWAYS EASY—OR THE RIGHT USE OF THE EYES.—An Italian Bishop struggled through great difficulties without repining, and met with much opposition in the discharge of his Episcopal functions, without even betraying the least impatience. An intimate friend of his, who admired those virtues which he thought it impossible to imitate, one day asked the prelate if he could communicate the secret of his being always easy. "Yes," replied the old man, "I can teach you my secret, and with great facility; it consists in nothing more than making a right use of my eyes." His friend urged him to explain himself. "Most willingly," returned the bishop; "in whatever state I am, I first of all look up to heaven, and remember that my principal business here is to prepare for my journey there; I then look down upon the earth, and call to mind how small a space I shall occupy in it when I come to be interred; I then look abroad upon the world, and observe what multitudes there are who in all respects, are more unhappy than myself.—Thus I learn where true happiness is placed, where all our cares must end, and how very little reason I have to complain."

PRIZE MEDALS.—Captain Bille has presented the teacher of the Royal School with several prize medals, to be given to those of the young chiefs who best deport themselves, and show the greatest proficiency in their studies.

HONOLULU, Oct. 30, 1846.

GENTLEMEN:—Your letter of yesterday, accompanying the very liberal donation of one hundred and seven dollars, subscribed by yourselves for the praiseworthy purpose of defraying the expense of erecting a neat railing round the piece of ground set apart by the Nuanu Cemetery Association for the burial of seamen, has afforded me the most sincere gratification.

Until within two years the want of an appropriate resting place for the remains of those who die among us, has been a constant source of regret. By the generosity of the Hawaiian Government in granting to this association a piece of ground for the purpose, this want has been supplied. A beautiful spot has been selected and appropriated, and the liberality of the residents has enclosed and ornamented it. A portion of the ground has been set apart by the association for the burial of seamen, and has already received the mortal remains of many who have been called away from earth while visiting these shores. It has been very desirable that this spot should be marked by an enclosure, but the funds of the association would not warrant the outlay. Your liberal subscriptions have now supplied the means for the accomplishment of this purpose, and in the name of the association I thank you for the aid which you have thus voluntarily rendered in furtherance of its objects, thus affording a new proof of the readiness with which ship masters visiting this port will always act in concert with the residents for the promotion of any charitable or benevolent purpose.

I am, Gentlemen,

With much respect,

Your obedient servant,

JAMES F. B. MARSHALL,

For the Committee of Management of the Nuanu Cemetery Association.
To Capt. Wm. K. KILBORN,
" N. FALES,
" S. TINKHAM, and others.

DIED

In this town, on Friday last, of consumption, Mrs. HARRIET F. TEN EYCK, aged 31 years, wife of Anthony Ten Eyck, Esq., U. S. Commissioner.

The funeral will take place this day, (Saturday,) from his residence, at 4 o'clock, P. M. The friends of the family are invited to attend.

Within the present year three of our lady residents have been taken from among us by death, leaving not only families to mourn, but a sense of painful loss over a wide circle of friends. In a community of foreign residents like ours, isolated from the homes and associations of earlier years, death comes among us with more than common bereavement. With the busy multitudes of our native cities, a few only note the chasm, and the rest press eagerly forward on their mortal race. The note of sorrow is speedily drowned in the busy hum of life. Not so here. We are few, and strangers in a far-off country. The daughters of our mother lands become doubly dear as associated with all we hold nearest our hearts in our common homes, and as companions, whose presence has done here to elevate and improve society, what man by himself could never do. As one by one they leave us for that "better land," where they are to dwell everlastingly in houses "not made with hands," all of us who know a true woman's worth, have selfish cause to mourn. This is particularly the case with Mrs. Ten Eyck, whose sudden though not unexpected death, we have now the sorrowful duty to record. Accompanying Mr. Ten Eyck on his diplomatic mission to this government, she landed among us last June, from the Congress frigate, a stranger to nearly all. She has now left us, endeared by no common social virtues, and bright in our memories by remembrances which, if the power were theirs, would fondly recall her to life, not for her sake, but for our own. No lady has ever visited our shores more fitted by intelligence, kindness and official rank, to exercise a beneficial influence in our social and political circles. We cannot refrain from giving publicity to one of her sentiments, which deserves to be forever remembered. Those who recollect the state of our society, at that period, can fully appreciate the independence of character manifested. "While I have a home in Honolulu, there shall be one neutral ground, where all parties may meet in a friendly way." Faithfully did she conform her action to her principles while strength permitted.

The first impress of her character had just begun to be felt, and, invalid as she was, hope beamed bright in many minds for her prolonged existence, under our balmy skies, when she rapidly drooped, and on Friday morning her spirit passed away without a struggle, leaving friends to mourn indeed.

To the deceased, in her short life among us, we can well apply the beautiful idea of the Prussian poet, upon the birth of a new born infant:

Sinking in thy last long sleep,

Thou may'st smile, but all around thee weep.

The national ensign at the fort, the consular flags, and the flags of the shipping were lowered to half-mast, on the news of the melancholy event. All parties unite in respect to the deceased and sympathy to the surviving relatives.

HUNT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE

AND COMMERCIAL REVIEW.—By

FREEMAN HUNT, Editor and Proprietor.—Published monthly, at 142, Fulton Street, New York, at $5 per annum, in advance.—The Merchants' Magazine and Commercial Review, embraces every subject connected with commerce, manufactures and political economy, as follows:—Commercial legislation; commercial history and geography; mercantile biography; descriptive, statistical and historical accounts of the various commodities which form the subject of mercantile transactions; port charges; tariffs; customs and excise regulations, commercial statistics of the United States and the different countries of the world with which we have intercourse, including their physical character, population, productions, exports, imports, commerce, embracing fisheries, incorporated companies, railroads, canals, steamboats, docks, post offices, &c.; principles of commerce, finance and banking, with practical and historical details and illustrations; commercial law, and mercantile law reports and decisions of courts in the United States and Europe, including insurance, partnership, principal and agent, bills of Exchange, sale, guaranty, bankruptcy, shipping and navigation, &c., and whatever else shall tend to develop the resources of the country and the world, and illustrate the various topics bearing upon commerce and commercial literature.

It has been and will continue to be, the aim of the editor and proprietor of the Merchants' Magazine to avoid everything of a party, political, or sectional bias or bearing, in the conduct of the work—opening its pages to the free and fair discussion of antagonistic doctrines connected with the great interests of commerce, agriculture, manufactures and the currency.

Complete sets of the Merchants' Magazine, embracing thirteen semi-annual volumes, of about 600 large octavo pages each, bringing it down to Dec. 1845, inclusive, may be obtained at the Publisher's office, 142 Fulton street, New York, at the subscription price.

Extract from a letter to the Editor, from Hon Geo. P. Marsh, Member of Congress from Vermont, dated March 16th, 1844—

"It is, as far as I know, unique in its design and character, and both its plan and execution are well calculated for the promotion of the object at which it aims. As a whole, it is a highly important contribution to the literature of commerce, and it embodies a mass of practical knowledge and valuable detail, which would hardly otherwise be accessible."

Subscriptions received at this office for FREEMAN HUNT, Proprietor and Publisher.
